About the Course

Social science research is a dynamic and ever-changing domain. New studies and new publications bring along new facts and interpretations, make us aware of fresh ways of looking at research, and push us toward new approaches, perspectives, and methods of making sense of social realities. These developments in knowledge production make social science research a constantly evolving area rather than a static one. Teachers and researchers working in their specific domains often do not get an opportunity to update their research skills. Addressing these concerns, the Department of Physical Education and Sports, CUH are organizing a Two-Week Capacity Building Programme at CUH Campus for young faculty members in social sciences across the country.

The course intends to cover philosophical and conceptual aspects of social science research, methodologies, techniques, skills required to undertake research, and necessary steps, care, and know-how regarding converting research into writings and publications, including the integration of ICT tools in research processes. This course aims to make its participants familiar with the basic philosophical views of social sciences, the trajectories of shifts in methodologies in the last hundred years, some key interventions in the Indian and global landscape of knowledge production in the field of social sciences, and how to convert research into academic output (publication).

We aim to bring together both the theoretical as well as pragmatic aspects of doing research in social sciences. The core objective of the Capacity Building Programme is to promote and emphasize the advanced level of understanding of scientific tools, ICT techniques, and methods among the faculty members and researchers for conducting high-quality research.

Capacity Building Programme

The programme aims to provide training to young faculty members towards their capacity building in doing social science research. To achieve these goals, the Course will address issues i.e.

- Proficiently Utilize ICT Tools
- Enhance Research Productivity
- Foster Data-driven Decision Making
- Promote Collaborative Research
- Improve Research Quality and Rigor
- Adapt to Technological Advancements
- Enhance Communication of Research Findings

Broad Overview of Course Modules

This part will cover the philosophical and conceptual aspects of social science research, selection and formulation of research problems, reviewing literature, developing conceptual frameworks, creating research proposals, data collection methods, and the integration of ICT tools in research processes. Part II: Applied aspects of social science research. This part will focus on gathering, processing, and analyzing qualitative and quantitative data, addressing difficulties in publishing research, and the utilization of ICT for enhancing research efficiency and publication quality. All the sessions will be interactive in which participants will have scope to discuss and dialogue with resource persons. Participants will also be working on assignments and making presentations.
